Bay St. Louis residents concerned about effect of gaming on oysters

BY TRACI BONNEY

What do oysters and dockside gambling have in common?

One potential thing is the area between the Bay bridge and the railroad bridge.

Bay St. Louis businessmen Ames Kergosien and Robert Kane brought yet another possible problem connected with dockside gambling in the Bay of St. Louis into the spotlight

Wednesday when they met with John Cirino, wildlife/fisheries shellfish coordinator for the Bureau of Marine Resources.

Kergosien and Kane presented Cirino with a petition containing more than 800 signatures of residents concerned about the potential effects of dredging on bottomlands in the area between the two bridges on the public oyster tonging reef located there.

A cover letter accompanying the petitions states: "Some of these people and many others in the area have oystered and enjoyed these bottoms for many, many years. There is abundant evidence that native Americans in our area also oystered these bottoms."

Kergosien said he thinks the petitions were well-received. "We just wanted to make BMR aware of our concerns about this public tonging reef. We don't want to see it disturbed.

"We did this because we have heard that there has been some speculation about dredging between the bridges for permanently mooring gambling vessels."

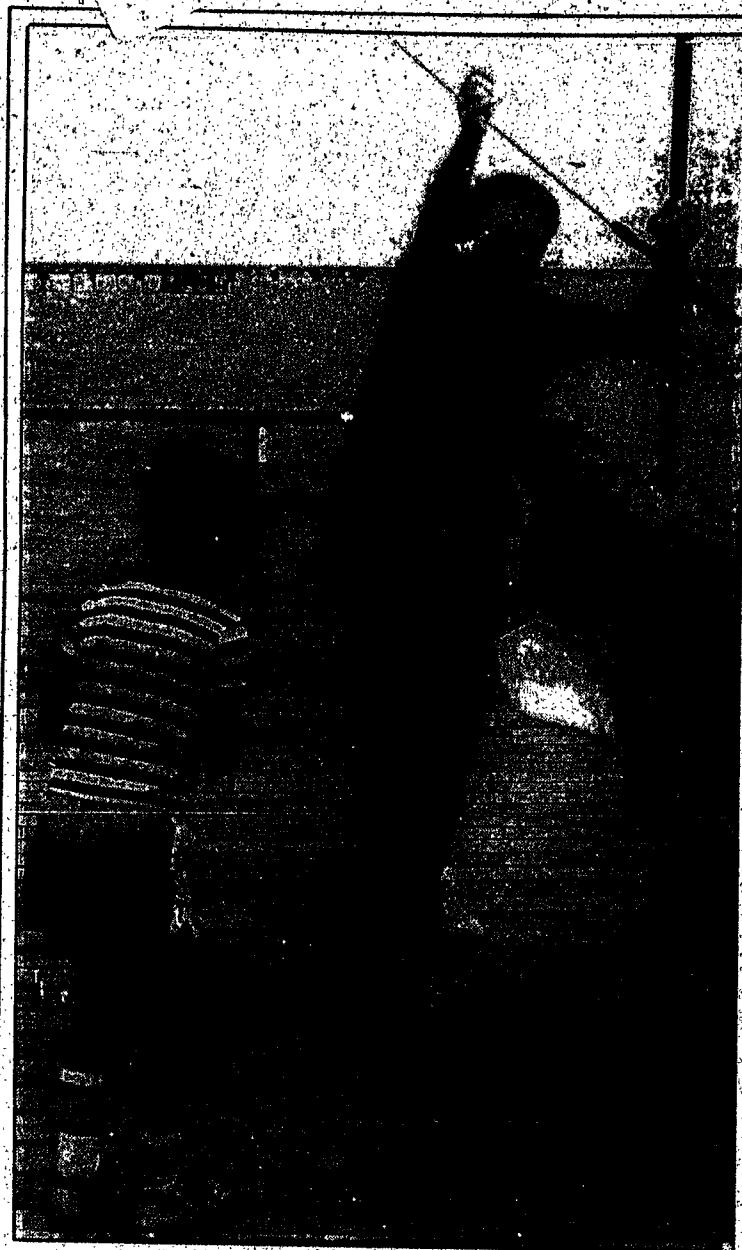

Cirino said BMR had not specifically considered the effect on the Bay tonging reef until now. However, he added, the agency also has not received any dredging permit applications yet.

"When we do get an application, there are several things we'll need to look at: I'll be looking at the possible disturbance to the reef; the fisheries department will look at the effects on fish; and the wetlands department will study the overall effect on habitat."

"But we really can't do anything or take any sort of position until we receive an application."

Good Friday closings

The following offices will be closed for business Friday, March 29 in observance of Good Friday: Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland (all departments), Hancock County offices, City-County Library (all branches). Waste Management garbage pickup will be on normal operating schedule.

SSC student reported in fair condition

St. Stanislaus student, Robert McCoy of Tallahassee, Fla. is in fair condition at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport following a Sunday afternoon automobile accident.

Officer David Gallier, accident reconstruction specialist with the Bay St. Louis Police Department, reported that at 3:44 p.m. Sunday, the seventh grader attempted to cross Beach Boulevard in front of the school and stepped into the path of a 1983 Nissan driven by Brent Snellings of Waveland. The 13-year-old student was transported to Hancock Medical Center by Mobile Medic for immediate treatment. McCoy was moved to the intensive care unit at Memorial Hospital later that day.

The student was reported to be in fair condition as of Wednesday by a spokesperson for the hospital who said, "His vital signs are stable, but he is not responding as of yet.

"He is suffering from a head injury, which is the primary

Waveland's City Hall puts on a fresh face

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland's Mayor Stella Frilot sits in her spacious new office looking out onto Coleman Avenue speaking of the work that has taken place at City Hall these past five weeks to create the three completed rooms of beauty surrounding her.

"It is wonderful to see the spirit of cooperation this project has initiated," said Frilot.

The mayor's office is now located on the right front side of the Coleman Avenue upper floor. It is twice the size of the prior office. It holds a conference table for weekly department head meetings, a seating area for informal conversation and a small desk for formal work.

Behind the mayor's office is the adjoining office of city secretary, Betsy Phillips, and next to her is the office of the city clerk, Arcelyn "Dee" Dastugue.

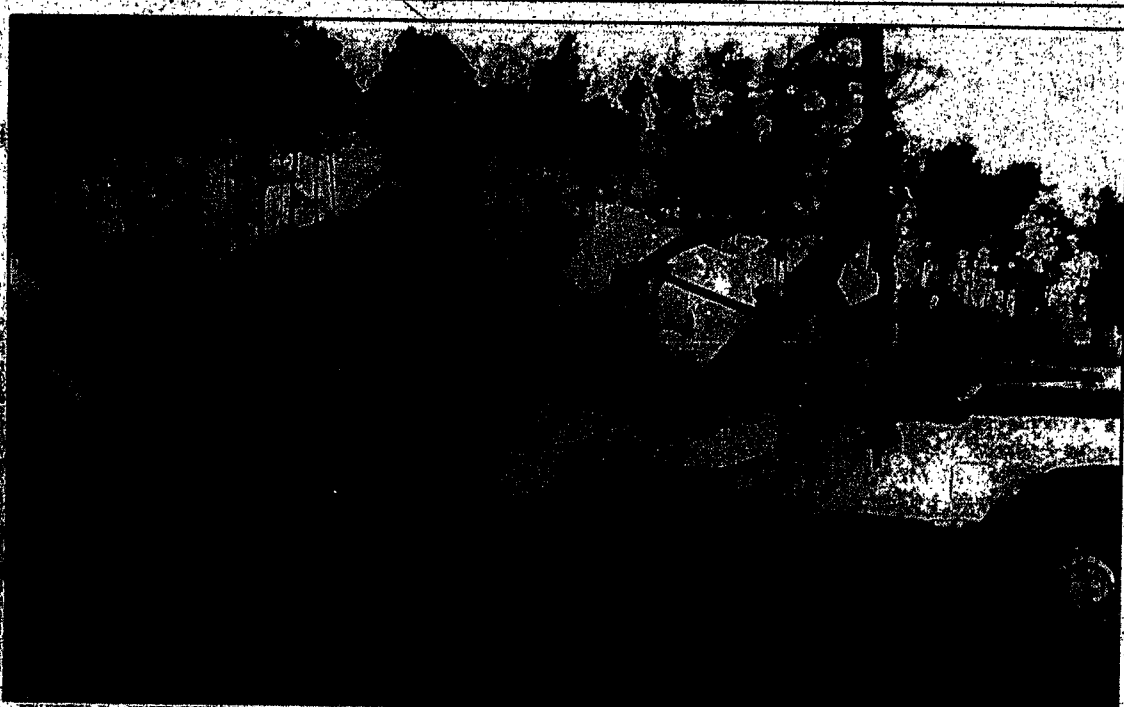

For years, the mayor, city clerk, bookkeeper and morning receptionist shared the space of the left half of the floor. The newly renovated right side was used for the city building inspector and storage.

The mayor's office was a room approximately 12 feet square. The bookkeeper had an adjoining room where she worked at the conference table, now located in the mayor's new office.

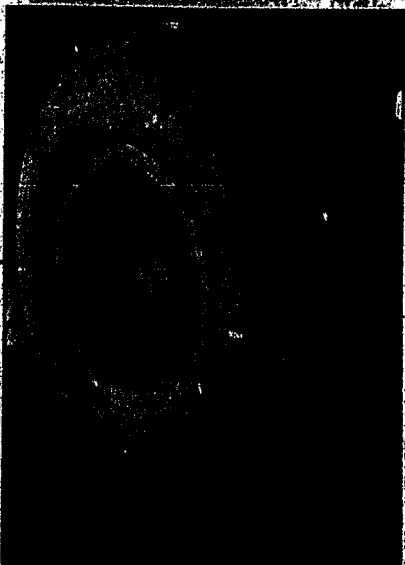

The city clerk/secretary's desk was in the back area of the receiving hall, and a receptionist sat at a desk in the center of

Three injured in two-truck accident

The photo above shows a pickup truck whose roof was torn off when the truck struck the rear of a log truck trailer Monday around 5 p.m. at the intersection of Hwy. 607 and old Hwy. 90. A night is a closeup of the log truck trailer wheel hit by the pickup. Shards of glass and pieces of truck metal slashed the tire and embedded themselves in the tire rim at the time of impact. Pickup truck driver Angel Jackson, 34, passengers Paul Michael Weaver and Roy Ladner Jr., both 16, all of Lakeshore, were injured. Log truck driver James Dale Reid, 46, of Perkinston, was reported to be uninjured, as was a horse being transported by Jackson in a trailer hitched to the pickup. According to Mississippi Highway Patrol Officer Mike Cox, the incident occurred when the log truck pulled in front of the pickup truck, which was southbound on Hwy. 607 and had a turn signal on. Jackson, Weaver and Ladner were transported to Hancock Medical Center. According to an HMC spokesperson, Weaver was treated and released, while Jackson was admitted with a fractured leg and Ladner with fractured ribs. Both are in good condition and recovering, the spokesperson said. (Photos by Thomas H. (Doc) Toups)

Sheriff's Department searches for missing man

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department plans to begin an aerial search for missing Bay Side Park resident William R. Burr today, according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said Wednesday that the department will use a helicopter and small airplanes to search from the sky for the gold 1986 Toyota Burr was reported to be driving when he was last seen early Saturday morning.

"From what we've learned talking to the people who know him, it's unusual for him to be missing like this," Peterson explained. "We're treating this investigation now like foul play may be involved."

Burr, 36, was reported to have been seen last by a Bay St. Louis resident who is a co-worker of Burr at the Pass Christian construction company which employs Burr as a carpenter. Peterson said the co-worker, Burr and another co-worker, who lives in Pass Christian, reportedly went to a Pass Christian lounge Friday night and left early Saturday morning.

According to the sheriff's report, Burr dropped off both co-workers and was apparently headed home when he was last seen around 3:45 a.m.

Peterson described Burr as being between 5'10" and 5'11" weighing about 150 pounds and having curly brown hair and brown eyes. According to the description, he also has the name Glenda tattooed on one arm and the name Ruth on the other.

He was last seen wearing black jeans, a cream-colored button-up shirt and brown suede shoes. The sheriff said Burr's car is a gold 1986 Toyota station

The Passover meal: its symbols and meaning

Most people, both Jews and Christians, are more familiar with the Passover or Pesach Festival than with any other Jewish holiday. This festival, supposedly Jesus' Last Supper, is a remembrance to all Jewish people that they were slaves in the land of Egypt.

It reminds all that God "passed over" the homes whose doors were smeared with lamb's blood when he killed the first born of all the Egyptians during the Jews' attempt to leave Egypt. It is a reminder of the 40 years the Jews spent in the desert as nomads; of the giving of the laws by Moses at Mount Sinai; and of the deliverance of the Hebrew people to the "land of milk and honey."

This holiday takes place in the spring, and begins on March 29 at sundown this year. During this eight-day period, no leavened bread or cakes or flour should be eaten. Many Jews remove such items from their homes.

Special china, crystal, pots, pans, etc., used only for Pesach meals, are pulled from their shelves. If the family has none, they may kosherize their daily utensils by boiling or firing.

The observance of the holiday varies a little from home to home and congregation to congregation. Most Jewish families celebrate the first night's Seder supper as a family in individual homes. Some congregations have a symbolic feast on the second night for all. Still other groups have only the congregational Seder and not home Seders.

Yet tradition prevails. Before each father, leader or rabbi is placed an ornate Seder plate with special places for the symbolic foods.

The plate holds several items. A roasted lamb bone is an emblem of the Paschal lamb or Pesach. This was eaten by the ancient Jews while the temple in Jerusalem was in existence as a memorial to God's guidance.

Parsley or watercress is used as a token of gratitude to God's guidance. It is dipped in salt water or vinegar to make it palatable.

The bitter herb (moror) is a piece of horseradish root. It represents the embittered life of the Israelites in Egypt.

Haroses, a mixture of apples, almonds, raisins, cinnamon and wine, was probably used originally as a condiment. It now represents the clay with which the Israelites made brick or mortar used in the huge structures by the slaves in Egypt.

The roasted egg is the symbol of the well-burnt offering brought on each of the eight days of the feast to the temple as long as it existed in Jerusalem.

On another plate are four matzot covered with cloths or napkins. Matzot are unleavened bread, or the bread of affliction.

These, too, remind the Jews not only of the hardships endured as slaves, but of the haste with which the Hebrews left Egypt. Having no time to bake their bread, these fleeing slaves had to rely for food upon sun-baked dough which they carried with them. The fourth matzo, a new addition, reminds the Jews of their Russian brethren held in virtual captivity until recently.

The second matzo, the Aphikom, is broken before the service and one half is hidden for the children to find after the meal. This was one way to keep the children alert throughout the entire service. The leader rewards the child who finds the Aphikom.

Wine is also part of the service. The four cups that each drinks are tokens of festivities. The Seder table must always be set for one extra guest — the prophet Elijah. During the service, after the meal, the door is opened in the belief that Elijah will someday be there.

All of these symbols are used and explained, and many are eaten, during the service held before and after the meal. Songs are sung. The question "Why is this night different from all other nights?" is asked at every table.

The leader answers, "We celebrate tonight because we were Pharaoh's bondsmen in Egypt and the Lord delivered us with a mighty hand. Had not the Lord delivered us from Egypt, we, our children, and our children's children would have remained slaves."

"The Lord parted the Red Sea for us and Moses received the Laws during our 40 years in the desert. So it is our duty to tell this story year after year to remind us of our heritage."

So continues the festival meal of the Passover. The symbolism of Passover is ancient, yet today the symbols are the same. The meanings of the holi-

KILLING TIME

The return of the Hawaiian shirt

Well, it's officially spring. How do I know this?—Other than by consulting a calendar, that is?

Simple. Ellis is wearing Hawaiian shirts to work again. Ellis Cuevas, the Sea Coast

Echo publisher/paycheck signer, is sort of like some critters. Before you either burst out laughing or get indignant, let me explain.

Many of God's creations have two sets of fur or plumage—the winter coat and the summer coat. Ellis does, too, in a manner of speaking.

During the winter, Ellis wears a dignified-looking business suit of some sort. But at the first hint of spring-type weather, like a caterpillar turning into a butterfly, Ellis dons shirts printed with tropical flowers, surfers, or trendy word-and-picture print.

I guess he prefers these shirts in the spring because they are cooler than a three-piece suit—or maybe he wants to be in tune with the season.

In fact, Ellis has a reputation Coastwide—probably statewide and possibly worldwide—for wearing colorful shirts in warmer weather. If he wears a suit this time of year, people ask him what funeral he's attending. (That's no lie! Ellis himself told me so.)

Ellis is very daring with his wardrobe, come to think of it. He breaks the traditional mold of menswear every year.

Women have no problem making the metamorphosis from dark, warm winter clothes to bright, cool spring ones. The garment manufacturers are very accommodating toward the female of the species when it comes to clothing.

Men, on the other hand, have little choice. Oh, they can exchange the dark blue for the light blue, the gray for the black or the tan for the brown, but beyond that they have a limited selection for seasonal wardrobe changes. A three-piece suit is still a three-piece suit.

Ellis seems to have beat this problem. Admittedly, a Hawaiian shirt is not very stylish for a Mississippi businessman, but if he's comfortable with it, why not wear it?

In fact, he could become a trendsetter. Who knows? One day, you may not be able to walk into a local business during the spring and summer without seeing an executive sporting a Hawaiian shirt.

Think about it for a minute and return, if you will, to the earlier analogy to critters. In almost every other species of animal on this planet, God made the male the flashier, more brightly plumed gender. The idea (at least, as far as our brilliant scientists have concluded) is that the male, by being brightly colored, will lure predators away from the nest/den/hole in the ground/whatever—and therefore away from the female and children, protecting them.

If a brightly colored male attracts attention, it only seems logical that such a thing could be an asset for a businessman. If you attract attention, will you not attract business?

So, we welcome the spring- once again, with its budding leaves, beachgoing tourists (and locals), and blooming flowers—both on and off shirts.

ON PATROL

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Sgt. David Stepro with the Waveland Police Department reported that Monday two Bay St. Louis boys riding double on a bicycle were struck by a car as it pulled out from the Spur Gasoline Station.

The boys were headed west along Hwy. 90 in the emergency lane, traveling against the direction of traffic, Stepro said.

"The driver of the car said he looked both ways and did not see the boys."

The boys were taken to Hancock Medical Center where they were treated and released.

Stepro said no citation was issued.

BURGLARY

Detective Gus Aime of the Bay St. Louis Police Department reported the arrest of a Bay St. Louis resident Monday in connection with two burglaries.

Aime said Leonard O. Lewis, 28, was arrested and charged with two counts of burglary after his parents signed affidavits March 18 stating that he had taken several items from a house and a rental house they own in Bay St. Louis.

Aime said Lewis is incarcerated under $5,000 bond and is being held pending felony warrants from Louisiana for violation of parole supervision.

Items taken, most of which Aime said have been recovered, include three air conditioners, a refrigerator, a freezer, an antique chest, a stereo and four speakers.

BOMB INJURY

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda reported Monday that Rico Lee, 22, of Picayune sustained severe damage to his left hand and right leg when a small bomb exploded in his hand Sunday.

Hoda said Deputies Kenny Hurt and Gene Boswell answered a call at 4:54 p.m. Sunday that Lee had been injured while fishing at Hickory Creek, half a mile from Hwy. 43. According to Hoda, Lee was apparently trying to make a small bomb from gunpowder to fish with when it exploded in his hand.

Lee was taken to Crosby Memorial Hospital, Hoda said. A hospital spokesman said Lee was later transferred to Tulane Medical Center in New Orleans.

Hoda said the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau was notified of the incident.

COPPER THEFT

Investigator David Parker of the Bay St. Louis Police Department reported the arrest of a Clinton resident Tuesday in connection with the attempted theft of 63 pieces of copper cable.

Parker said Edison Watson, 21, was arrested and charged with grand larceny after Officers Shane Corr and E.J. Favre responded to a report that someone was stealing cable from the South Central Bell building at St. John and St. Francis.

Corr and Favre answered the call about 1:30 a.m. Parker said that when they arrived at the scene, the suspect fled on foot through a wooded area. Bay St. Louis police officers called Mike Bloom of the Pass Christian Police Canine Unit for assistance.

After trailing the suspect for about two blocks, the officers found him hiding in a boat shed, Parker said.

He added that Watson is incarcerated in the Hancock County jail under $10,000 bond.

Parker, who is in charge of the investigation, said another arrest is possible.

GRAND LARCENY

Waveland Police Officer James Varnell reported that Harry Raymond Milliron, 27, no address, was arrested and charged with grand larceny after allegedly stealing a car owned by the residents of 403 Sidney St., with whom he was reportedly staying at the time.

Varnell said Milliron was apprehended in LaGrange, Texas, from where he was extradited to Mississippi.

Milliron is incarcerated under a $2,000 bond and is awaiting arraignment, Varnell added.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Spring is the seasonable change enjoyed by most folks, as it is the beginning season of many flowering shrubs and flowers, as well as warm weather.

It is the time of year when many of the area's trees grow leaves and others new growth.

Youngsters get the urge to bike ride, play ball and do many other activities.

The extra number of youngsters on our streets is too, a time for motorists to be extremely careful.

Youngsters should keep in mind the possible hazards for not observing traffic rules, especially those on bicycles.

It is always hard for me to drive past a group of youngsters on bikes, especially, when some will move to the right and others to the left of the road.

I am sure the youth have been given the proper instructions as to how to ride a bicycle on the streets.

I want everyone to enjoy themselves this spring, but, I want everyone to be safe too.

It seems every few months I have to get on the "stump" about vehicles with only one headlight.

It seems it is hard at night to travel a ten mile trip at night without coming across a car or truck with only one headlight, sometimes you will see two, three or maybe four.

I realize it is easy to lose a headlight from regular travel, as I have from gravel striking a headlight.

One of the things I do on occasion is check my car's lights to make sure they are all working properly.

By the way, I wonder how many motorists are driving about with expired inspection stickers.

If you are stopped, it could mean a citation for you.

Paying tribute to Mississippi's military men and women

Mississippi loves America. We prove it every day.

We just proved it again by sending our military men and women to protect American interests and to fight for freedom in the Persian Gulf.

We are proving it now by honoring our returning freedom fighters.

Now, in a statewide celebration, the Mississippi Economic Council, speaking for all Mississippians, will pay tribute to Mississippi's fighting forces in its Annual Membership Meeting April 10 and 11 in Jackson.

The Council, Mississippi's largest organization of business, professional, and industrial members, has set aside this forty-second annual meeting to recognize and honor the contribution to freedom made by Mississippians in the Gulf War.

The event will include both a visual presentation of Mississippi men and women in Saudi Arabia and a pageant of patriotic music, performed by a Mississippi "Voice of Freedom" choir of more than 200 voices, representing every section of the state.

Mississippians will want to join with the Mississippi Economic Council in honoring our military men and women who represented us with dignity and pride and with special courage and commitment.

Cleanup

Mike Lee of Coast Electric and nephew Chad Ladner gather 18 bags of trash and three tires Saturday on Highways 90 and 607 during a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Beautification project in preparation for the annual Spring Pilgrimage which begins on April 1. Betsy Ashman, right, highway project chairman, loads one of the bags of litter. Several volunteers helped, along with chamber volunteer Martha Van Peski, Garden Club and Lions Club members. A joint effort between chamber, county, Bay St. Louis and Waveland officials is underway for the beautification of Highways 90 and 607 from Interstate 10 to the Bay bridge.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bay residents should unite to preserve community's beauty

Dear Editor,

Now that the gambling interests are apparently no longer trying to loosen controls on the casinos, it seems more possible that people can work together, as Ken Murphy's letter (Mar. 25) suggests.

It's a worthy goal. With the positive attitude Ken wrote about, we can move into the future without abandoning the past. We can benefit from gambling and still have a clean, attractive, quiet community for all. We can return to the money that we lost in the past. We can offer up our historical, residential beachfront to cruise vessel casinos.

Let us unite to establish one area where all gambling can be located without adverse impact on family neighborhoods. This would be reasonable and knowledgeable, as Ken requests.

Let us unite to demand tight controls—intensive background checks on all owners and lessors, Coast Guard regulations on the ships, drought provisions, limited eligible sites and the right to vote gambling out if the community changes its mind. Then the fears Ken wrote about will be calmed.

Let us unite to demand that our elected officials represent all, not just some of us. In that way, the suspicion Ken wrote about will be removed and trust restored.

Above all, let us unite to preserve the natural beauty and serenity of the bay. It belongs to all of us. It is a gift we had no share in creating, a legacy we have no right to sell.

Let us join together in refusing to barter this irreplaceable part of our heritage for a fistful of silver.

Sincerely,
Peggy Dutton

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

This time, Congress and the nation are saying thanks

Some things do change for the better.

I remember 15 years after the Vietnam War how horrible it was that veterans in Mississippi did not have a state highway named in their honor. As a state senator, I authorized legislation that dedicated Interstate 10 as the Vietnam Veterans Highway.

One thing that has changed for the better in the aftermath of the Persian Gulf War is the public appreciation being shown for our veterans. This time, people are 100 percent behind our troops and are taking every opportunity to express their support. Congress is also doing its part.

The House of Representatives last week approved a $1.1 billion benefits package for Desert Storm military personnel and this country's other war veterans.

The pay increases and benefits were enacted as part of emergency legislation to pay for the costs of Desert Storm. In my opinion, the benefits package for military personnel and veterans is a necessary cost of war.

Over the last six months, 500,000 of this nation's military personnel have put their lives on standby and selflessly answered this country's call to duty. These men and women have paid for the new benefits through their sacrifices.

The $1 billion veterans portion of the Desert Storm Authorization package was largely crafted by Veterans Affairs Chairman G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss. The money is earmarked for improvements in veterans health benefits, such as readjustment counseling for veterans returning from combat, and to increase GI bill education benefits and to provide additional housing benefits for veterans.

Benefits for active duty military personnel include a retroactive increase in "imminent danger" pay from $110 to $150 a month for troops involved in combat situations in the Middle East and an increase in the maximum death benefit from $3,000 to $6,000.

As for the veterans, Wednesday's legislation requires the VA and the Department of Defense to report annually to Congress regarding the needs of the Persian Gulf Veterans. It makes it easier for National Guard and Reserve members, who were denied home loans because of their service in the Persian Gulf War to obtain assistance. National Guard, Reserve and active force members are guaranteed a home loan after 90 days of wartime service.

As for the families of individuals who died of service-

It was "some" gathering and then some more that assembled at the courthouse Tuesday night, pursuant to a call from Mayor L.B. Capdepon as chairman, which call appeared in the columns of The Echo last Saturday. The object of the mass meeting was to receive the report of a committee of citizens appointed as a result of the mass meeting of citizens held at the same place early last October after the storm. This committee, appointed to devise ways and means for the building of a seawall along the entire front of the city of Bay St. Louis, reported Tuesday night's meeting, and its report was accepted by the adoption of the foregoing resolution, offered by Judge Will T. McDonald. Before its adoption, however, on suggestion of J.N. Wisner, the request was made that if there were anyone present who opposed the proposed seawall and bond issue necessary to defray the cost of building, or who had any reason to advance why the citizens should not favor such a step, that they "speak out in the meeting or hold their peace forever." The silence that followed was that of the proverbial kind when one may hear a pin drop.

"When the Pistol Law Goes into Effect" Jackson, Miss., April 1. —There seems to be a misapprehension all over Mississippi concerning the time when the new pistol law goes into effect. A good many officers of the law are under the impression that the new law went into effect immediately after it was signed by the governor. This is a mistake. The law does not go into effect until sixty days after the governor has signed it. Officers of the law in all parts of the state should make note of this and act accordingly.

STREET TALK

What kind of news would you like to see more of in the Sea Coast Echo?

"More state politics. Such as what pertains to education, taxes, wetland issues...could concentrate a little more on those type of things."

Sammy Robbins
Bay St. Louis

"More detail on the governmental reporting; for example, budgetary breakdowns. Also more water sport coverage."

Orville Porter
Bay St. Louis

"I have always been a proponent of more good news in the papers. The people who do the writing for the Echo could look for positive things such as good economic indicators."

A.C. Adams
Pass Christian

"I think you cover a pretty good range. You are not just doing downtown Bay St. Louis. You cover Waveland, Diamondhead...and places like that."

Ann Latham
Bay St. Louis

"I'd like to understand more about the shrimping and oystering industries, which were quite visible five years ago. The newspaper could tell us more about the health of the bay and how citizens can participate to make these industries viable."

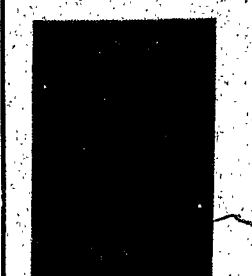

Moira Ambrose
Bay St. Louis

"I enjoy the cooking and 'Quotable Quotes.' I have no suggestions. I just enjoy it."

Doris Boudreaux
Shoreline Park

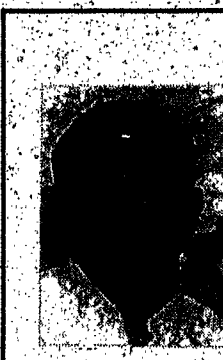

"I'd like to see more military coverage, especially right now. I like the school coverage; they do pretty good on the schools."

Elizabeth Hughes Waveland

"More coverage on the wildlife and fisheries. There are a lot of people who make their living on it and with the laws constantly being changed it's hard to keep up on them."

Al Stoufflet
Bay St. Louis

"I think they cover the local news pretty deep. As far as areas to see more of, I'd like to see more in sports. More activity coverage on the kids and the things they participate in. Give them an opportunity to contribute to the paper. More on police activities too, to give them support in their work."

the hall where she could greet those entering.

Next to city hall is a building called "City Hall Annex." The top floor housed apartments, and the bottom floor was constructed as offices but had more recently been used as a storage facility for city equipment.

In January, Frilot renovated one of the downstairs annex offices and moved the building inspector and his secretary into them.

Boxes upon boxes of records were gathered from the rooms in city hall and moved to the annex building. City workers had provided space by sorting out the various pumps and pieces of equipment into similar piles for identification and inventory.

helping with the renovation work, so she put up a volunteer sign-up sheet for anyone with some skills to help with the labor.

"Mike Smith (fireman) is our expert sheetrocker," continued Frilot. "He used to do sheetrocking for a living before he became a fireman."

The paneled walls of the unused rooms began to come down in mid-February and the pigeon littered dropped ceiling panels were pulled out to reveal the airy height of the original ceiling.

Central air ducts from the existing unit were extended to installed along with three ceiling fans, paint colors were chosen and the carpet was purchased. Frilot donated the material for the draperies and a seamstress was found.

"The entire cost for the work came to about $5,000," added Frilot. "It is remarkable how much money the city saved by the men giving their own time to help."

Frilot beamed with pride saying, "And now, the policemen are volunteering to help us when we start renovating the civic center. We are even getting calls from citizens asking if they can help, too."

The civic center on Coleman Avenue, which presently houses the Waveland Little Theater and the St. Vincent de Paul Thrift Store, is in dire need of renovations, according to Frilot.

She plans to tackle that project later in the year.

For now, Frilot is busy supervising the completion of the existing left side of the city hall floor.

When finished, the two offices from the prior administrations will house the bookkeeper, with desk, and the newly established office of purchasing agent Jean Askew.

The reception area will remain as it is, with the addition of a thin counter to "permit the receptionist some privacy," explained Frilot.

Dastugue, seated at her desk, in her new office, explained that the office allows her a "quiet" in which to concentrate more effectively on her work.

Phillips claims the new surrounding makes her want to work. "Work is not a chore when the surroundings are pleasant."

Frilot believes the improvements to the appearance of city hall and the mayor's office will demand a respect and professionalism from others upon initial meetings.

"This is the threshold of the city," said Frilot. "The office of mayor should reflect the dignity of the people."

Hancock residents receive NASA honor awards

Eleven Gulf Coast residents received special awards Wednesday during NASA's annual Honor Awards Ceremony at the John C. Stennis Space Center. Margaret Finarelli, NASA associate administrator for external relations, was guest speaker for the program and presented the awards to the recipients in SSC's Visitors Center auditorium.

Gulfport resident Arthur "Jack" Rogers Jr. was awarded NASA's Outstanding Leadership Medal. Rogers, a NASA employee since 1960, is director of SSC's Center Operations Office.

He was recognized for his outstanding leadership and managerial efforts that significantly contributed to the success of NASA and SSC goals and NASA's Exceptional Engineering Achievement Medal. The Waveland resident is a NASA employee in the Technology Development Division of SSC's Science and Technology Laboratory. The SSC equipment he played an instrumental role in developing has been a part of every launch since STS-26 without any systems failure.

What began as a project to assess ice deposits for shuttle launch operations has spun off to a number of other NASA applications that have the potential for improving safety and enhancing shuttle operations.

Meeks was cited for his many contributions to the shuttle program.

The Exceptional Engineer-

Gerald Meeks, Margaret Finarelli

Achievement Medal and an Exceptional Engineering Achievement Medal had been given to Stennis employees.

Eight additional Gulf Coast residents made up the 20-member NASA/contractor Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) Environmental Impact Team at Stennis Space Center. The team was honored with NASA's Group Achievement Award.

The group included NASA employees Ron Magee, Bay St. Louis; Myron Webb, Gulfport; Larrie Kelly, Diamondhead; Bruce Davis Long Beach; and Andrew Clarke, Ocean Springs.

NASA contractors in the group were Ellen Eagan, Bay St. Louis, and Harold Lambright, Waveland, both employees of Sverdrup Technology Inc., and Lane Cobb, Long Beach resident and employee of Johnson Controls World Services.

The individuals who were part of SSC's ASRM Environmental Impact Team were cited for successfully preparing the most comprehensive and detailed permits and supporting documentation of a solid rocket motor static test project in the country.

The group's efforts resulted in the development of environmental strategies and plans that would permit the safe testing of the ASRM and maintain environmental balance.

The work of the team resulted in a significant improvement and awareness of NASA's ASRM program at the community level.

NASA's Group Achievement Award is given in recognition of outstanding accomplishment which has been made through the coordination of many individual efforts and has contributed substantially to the accomplishment of the NASA mission.

NASA's Finarelli, special guest at the Honor Awards Ceremony, has been with the space agency since 1981. She was named to her present position in January of this year.

As associate administrator for external relations, she manages the agency's relationships with public and private organizations, both domestic and international. Finarelli is also responsible for NASA's educational activities.

Prior to NASA, Finarelli worked for several U.S. government agencies. She served as a senior policy analyst for International Science and Technology at the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy.

She was a technical advisor representing the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency in chemical, biological and radiological arms limitation negotiations, and a scientific intelligence analyst at the Central Intelligence Agency.

Two examples of this are the accession of Stennis to full center status and the successful completion of the B-1 test stand modification project.

Rogers has also played a key role in preparing SSC for two major new test programs—the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor and the New Launch System, formerly the Advanced Launch System.

The Outstanding Leadership Medal is awarded for notably outstanding leadership which has had a pronounced effect upon the technical or administrative programs of NASA. The award is given for an act of leadership or for sustained contributions based on an individual's effectiveness as a leader, the productivity of the individual's program, or demonstrated ability to develop the administrative or technical talents of other employees.

Carol Mix, former NASA senior resources management specialist in SSC's Office of the Comptroller, was given NASA's Exceptional Achievement Medal.

Mix was honored for her significant efforts as a resources analyst and for her assistance in developing automated methods to provide timely, accurate analysis and relay of data.

She has served as an outstanding example of a dedicated, enthusiastic, professional employee, and has contributed to the effective operation of the organization. Mix recently retired from NASA and moved to Huntsville, Ala., from Bay St. Louis.

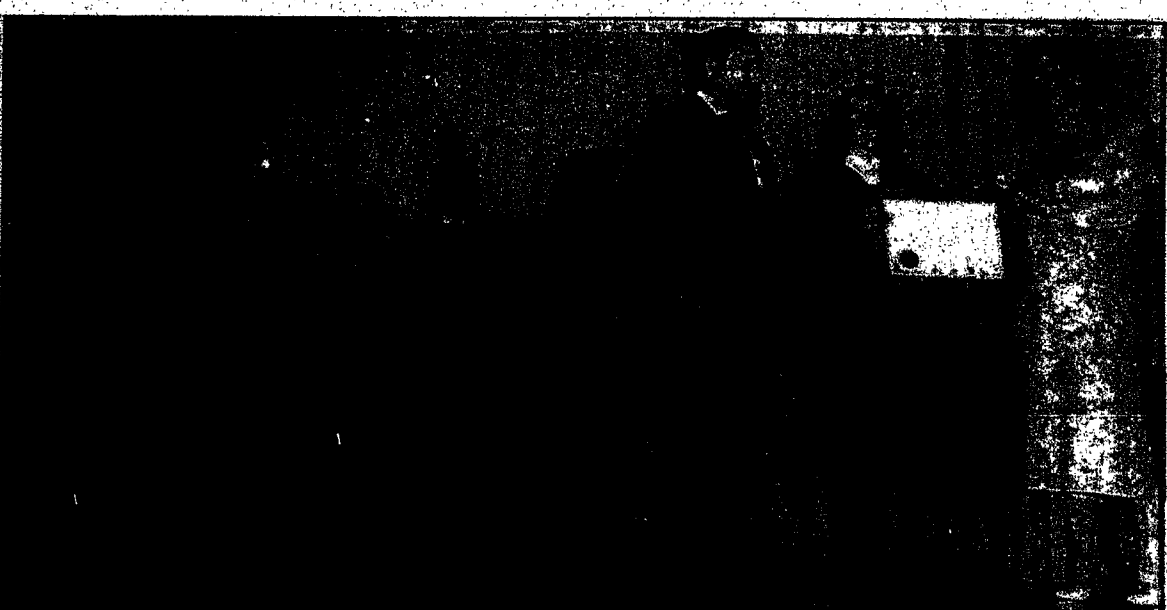

NASA's Exceptional Achievement Medal is awarded for significant, specific accomplishment or contribution clearly characterized by a substantial and significant improvement in operations, efficiency, service, financial savings, science or technology which contributes to NASA's mission.

For his work in designing, developing, installing and supporting the Kennedy Space Center Ice and Debris Team for Space Shuttle missions, Gerald Meeks was recognized with ing Achievement Medal is awarded for unusually significant engineering contributions toward achievement of the NASA mission.

The award may be given for individual efforts or application of engineering principles/methods which have resulted in a contribution of fundamental importance in, or enhanced understanding of, this field.

Evans, Folse named directors of de Montluzin Scholarship Fund

Special to the Echo
The Board of Directors of the Emily de Montluzin Foreign Language Scholarship Fund announces the appointment of two honorary members. Those named are James A. Evans Jr., Bay St. Louis, and Keith S. Folse, Waveland, now residing in Japan.

Evans is employed as a senior facility engineer by Johnson Controls World Services Inc. at the John C. Stennis Space Center. He is a registered professional engineer in the state of Louisiana and Mississippi.

Evans is a veteran of World War II and a graduate of Mississippi State University. He is a member of the Main Street United Methodist Church and serves on the administrative board and as president of the Methodist Men's Breakfast.

He is married to the former Mary Kathryn Patrick of Columbia, Miss. They are the parents of three children, James T. Evans, Macon, Ga.; Catherine Evans, Chapel Hill, N.C.; and Scott A. Evans, Mandeville, La.

Evans became interested in the retirement party planned for Mrs. de Montluzin as soon as the news was released, and on his own initiative, took up a collection from friends, family and members of his church and presented it for use in the retirement activities in any way it was needed.

The full amount was not used, and from the remainder began the beginnings of the scholarship fund. Evans and his wife have continued to contribute to the fund.

Keith Folse, a 1976 honor graduate of Bay Senior High School and a former student of Mrs. de Montluzin, received a bachelor of arts degree in English from the University of Southern Mississippi and a master of arts in English as a second language (ESL) from USM in 1980.

While at Southern (1979-1980) he also taught ESL. From 1980-84 he taught

James Evans Jr.

ESL at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Ala. and became assistant director of the intensive English language program.

In 1984-85 he taught ESL in Saudi Arabia and became senior instructor (supervisor). From 1985-1988 he taught ESL in Malaysia in a special program between the Malaysian government and the University of Texas and became the level supervisor.

From 1988-1990 he taught ESL in Japan in the graduate school of International Relations at the International University of Japan.

Folse became the educational director of the Language Academy in central Japan in 1990 and is in that position at this time. He has published two textbooks: English Structure Practices (1983) and Intermediate Reading Practices (1984) and has presented papers and demonstrations at conferences in the United States, Canada and Japan.

It was while at Springhill he learned of Mrs. de Montluzin's coming retirement and inquired as to plans for a celebration for this occasion.

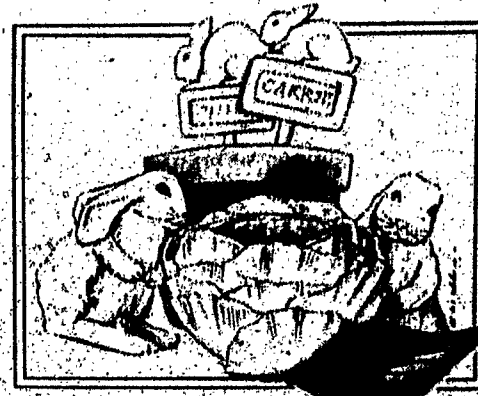

He learned that as it had not been the policy of the school to have special celebrations for a retiring teacher, he had to look elsewhere.

Former students, friends, parents of former and present students joined together and soon the Emily de Montluzin retirement party became proclaimed Emily de Montluzin Day by both the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis and was capped by a reception at Virginia Hall at which students, friends, representatives of Waveland and Bay St. Louis spoke of her interest in students and their education and the scholarship fund was begun.

Folse was the master of ceremonies for this occasion and Evans spoke on behalf of the interested citizens. Folse corresponds and visits regularly with Mrs. de Montluzin and is also a contributor to the fund.

The board of directors feel that in a small way they are thanking these two men for their concern and interest not only in Mrs. de Montluzin but in the future foreign language students of Hancock County.

The scholarship fund has been approved by the Internal Revenue Service and is tax exempt and last year increased their award from $500 to $1,000 yearly. Anyone wishing to make a contribution may do so at any Hancock Bank.

Accident victim unchanged

A spokesperson for Oschner Hospital in Jefferson Parish reported Wednesday that there has been no change in the condition of Keonta Golden, 6, of Bay St. Louis.

Golden was struck by a car on Hwy. 90 across from Gerry Lane Motors Friday afternoon. David Sellier of the Bay St. Louis Police Department reported that the child, who was with her mother, Linda, stepped into the path of a car traveling east when attempting to cross from the median.

Golden was airlifted Friday to Oschner following treatment at Hancock Medical Center. She remains in the pediatric intensive care unit at Oschner where she is suffering from multiple fractures and a head injury.

The hospital spokesperson said the child has been in a coma since her arrival to the hospital on Friday, although her vital signs remain stable.

At the time of the accident the police reported that no charges were anticipated.

Engine failure responsible for crash

By T. H. (DOC) TOUPS
Slidell pilot King P. "Bud" Herron, of 2991 Camelia Drive in Slidell, and passenger Betty Mayoral were slightly injured when Herron's experimental airplane crashed Sunday during an aborted takeoff.

The accident, which occurred shortly after 2 p.m., was apparently the result of engine failure. Witness Jerry Eichelberger, a local pilot, said, "The motor began to sputter, and he attempted to set it down. He apparently realized that he didn't have enough runway left to stop and tried to regain altitude. Then the engine died completely."

The plane, a Glasair "kit" aircraft, overshot the runway by several hundred feet. According to Gene Phillips, airport manager and owner of Phillips Aviation, the soft mud past the concrete runway apparently caused the plane's wheels to dig into the ground, flipping it over.

Phillips and several others present during the mishap raced to the scene to assist the crash victims and right the aircraft.

Phillips transported Mayoral to Hancock Medical Center. After examination, she returned to Stennis. Though in pain, Mayoral retained good spirits. She said this had been her first flight on a small airplane.

In spite of her untoward introduction to small aircraft flying, Mayoral and Herron boarded another small plane to return to Slidell.

injury.

"The case is still under investigation," said Sellier, "but, no charges are anticipated."

Sellier also reported that an hour and a half earlier, at 2:07 p.m., Sunday, Beach Boulevard was the site of a collision at the bridge light, when a 1987 Ford Escort driven by Sherri Kirspell of Covington, La. was traveling west on Hwy. 90 at a high rate of speed and ran a red light, colliding with a 1980 Toyota.

The Toyota was driven by Michael Hagensee of Waveland.

Kirspell and her passenger were transported by Mobile Medical to Hancock Medical Center where they were treated for minor injuries and released. No charges were reported by Hagensee.

Kirspell was charged with running a red light and reckless driving, according to Sellier.

Tigers lose to Stone Tomcats; edge Blue Devils

Friday, March 22 — The Bay High Tigers lost 11-2 to the Stone County Tomcats in a disappointing home game Friday night.

The game started well for the Tigers with the Tomcats' batters retiring three up, three down. Bay High picked up one run in the bottom of the first on Trellis Haynes, who reached first base on a single, second on a sacrifice by Calvin Thigpen, third on a fielder's choice by Charlie Mitchell and home on a drive by David Weems. Scott Barnes, at bat after Weems, flew out to left field to retire the side.

In the second inning the Tomcats came to life, scoring three runs on three hits. The bottom of the second was scoreless for the Tigers.

Stone County continued its scoring in the third inning, picking up four runs on four hits. In the bottom of the inning, Thigpen led off with a single to right field, then scored on a double by Weems. That ended the Tigers' scoring for the game.

The Tomcats continued to prove formidable, picking up six more runs in four innings to clinch the win.

The Tigers stood at 4-2 for the season after the matchup with Stone County.

Monday, March 25 — The Tigers recovered from their Friday loss to the Tomcats by defeating the Pearl River Central Blue Devils Monday afternoon 6-3 at Pearl River Central.

In the first inning, the Tigers picked up one run on hits by Thigpen and Weems while the Blue Devils went three up, three down.

The roles were reversed in the second inning as the Tigers went scoreless and the Blue Devils scored one run on two hits.

Haynes got on base in the third inning, but the Tigers could not generate any runs. Meanwhile, PRC picked up one run on a hit and an error.

Bay High scored two runs in the fourth on a hit by Barnes, while PRC picked up one run on a hit and an error.

In the top of the fifth, Haynes and Thigpen got on base with singles, then Weems made it to first as Thigpen was tagged out on a fielder's choice. With runners on the corners, Mitchell hit a single to center field to score Haynes and designated runner Brenan Compretta. In the bottom of the fifth PRC generated no hits and no runs.

Bay High picked up its last run of the game in the sixth inning on a single by Thomas Brink, and fielder's choices by Jamie Kingston and Scott Rogers. PRC went three up, three down in the bottom of the sixth.

The Tigers retired the side on the first three batters in the seventh inning. In the bottom of the inning, Weems struck out the first PRC batter, and the other two grounded out to the infield.

This win brings the Tigers' conference record to 1-2 and the season record to 5-2.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Easter, the principal feast of the Christian year, embodies many pre-Christian traditions. Although the origin of the name is not known, it is generally believed that it probably comes from Eastre, the Anglo-Saxon name of the Teutonic goddess of spring and fertility.

Traditions associated with this pagan festival survive to this day in the Easter Rabbit, a symbol of fertility, and in colored eggs which were originally painted in bright hues, representing the sunshine of Spring.

In addition to the religious traditions associated with Easter, this holiday celebration is enriched by native customs from many lands, handed down from generation to generation.

For example, in Ireland young people are expected to marry before Lent, providing a final celebration before the Lenten fast and solemnity. Bachelors who "copped out" were sprinkled with salt "to keep them fresh until next Shrove-tide" and were subjected to all sorts of pranks.

Special Easter breads and cakes are also a custom all around the world; and from the Emerald Isle comes still another tradition—"taking the cake." Have you ever wondered whence that expression comes—"He takes the cake?" It comes from an old Irish Easter Eve custom. A tasty cake was placed in a pub or at a crossroads, and the men danced to compete for it. The winner "took the cake" and gave it to his sweetheart!

And, speaking of cake and of Easter breads, bread baked on Good Friday was considered lucky in many European lands. Sailors carried loaves with them on long voyages as protection against shipwreck, and housewives kept a loaf all through the year to protect the house from fire. Wonder how the bread tasted after all that time?

And, if you've wondered why the Easter bunny lays eggs, like no other self-respecting rabbit, some researchers say that the Easter bunny traces his ancestry back to a bird. It seems that the goddess of Spring, Eastre, for whom Easter is named, amused a group of children one day by turning her pet bird into a rabbit, that's why he likes grassy nests and brings colored eggs!

The egg is a natural symbol for Easter, as it has always been a sign of rebirth and new life, and in ancient times the egg was the symbol of Spring itself.

Early Christians had adopted the egg as the symbol of the Resurrection by the time of the Middle Ages, and an Easter gift of colored eggs had become a token of affection.

And, so it is today; but that leaves us with the little matter of using up the excess eggs after all the fun of dyeing the eggs and after the Easter egg hunt for the youngsters and all that, doesn't it?

For my part, I am quite partial to stuffed eggs, and usually ask several friends over just after Easter and use up some of the hard-cooked, colorful eggs as stuffed eggs. Or perhaps I'll do Creole Eggs, halved, hard-cooked eggs covered with a zesty tomato-ey Creole sauce.

Then, of course, there's egg salad and tuna salad, and sliced hard-cooked eggs in spinach salad. Or, considering the price of shrimp and all that, I think that I'll make Eggs Remoulade, which used to be among luncheon specialties at Maylie's Restaurant in New Orleans. Quite simple, just top halved hard-cooked eggs, on a bed of shredded lettuce, with Remoulade Sauce. And, if you've mislaid your recipe, try mine, from my cookbook, "Cooking Up a Storm." Here's:

REMOULADE SAUCE CREOLE STYLE

4 Tbsp. vinegar
12 Tbsp. olive oil
8 Tbsp. Creole mustard
Tsp. white pepper, tsp. salt
Small white onion, finely chopped
Heart of celery or rib, chopped
Dash of black pepper
Chopped parsley, just enough to give added color and flavor

Mix well together, serve over the hard-cooked egg halves (or, if you can get your hands on some shrimp, forget the eggs and serve Shrimp Remoulade). Or, use this as a dip for fresh cut vegetables. Change the quantities to suit your needs, of course. And, Happy Easter!

In a recent recipe the amount of gelatin was omitted. Here is the recipe again in its entirety:

New hours for heritage display set at Keesler

Keesler's new heritage display is now open seven days a week. New hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. Sundays.

The public can obtain a vehicle pass and directions at the visitors' center just inside the gate near White Avenue off Hwy. 90.

The heritage display is located in Building 1906 on Meadows Avenue across the street from the Shoppette. The display will continue to operate until the end of 1991.

For more information, call 377-2112.

3 cups consomme
1/2 cup white wine
1/4 cup tarragon vinegar
1 tsp. dried tarragon
1/3 cup chopped parsley

Arrange the ham cubes in a large glass or porcelain bowl. Soak the gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Heat the consomme, wine, vinegar and the remaining one-fourth cup of water, and add to the gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Cool the liquid slightly and add tarragon and parsley.

Pour the mixture over the ham, which should be covered by the liquid. Place a plate on top and weight it down. Chill until completely set and firm. To serve, unmold the ham and slice it, or cut into thin slices in the bowl. (8 to 10 servings).

(I've used this recipe for years, especially for a buffet table, ever since I first found it in writings by that gourmet of gourmets, the late James Beard.)

Fresher than fresh seasonal produce continues to crowd the vegetable bins; and in the fruit bins, don't overlook those Louisiana strawberries coming into the markets in increasing numbers, or the imported red, white or blue grapes, or my favorite, white-green seedless grapes.

Frank and Jean Jaumot
7549 Mahalo Hui Drive

Completed in 1990, this small retirement home was designed by the owners primarily to showcase their oriental rugs and family antiques. Other highlights include the mahogany and leaded glass entry, the formal foyer and dining room, two 19th Century tapestries, prints by Audubon, Joubert and Robert Wu.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Marshall
6616 Alit Place

The Marshalls' varied interests and love of the unusual is evident in the decor of this sprawling Acadian home. The unique combination of boating and billiards is seen in the sunroom with handpainted pillows, lampshades and whimsical wall hangings. This room is obviously for having fun and is aptly called the stressless room. In contrast, the den, in deep reds and greens with richly paneled walls and Persian rugs, is a cozy retreat from the Coast's damp winter days. Other features include black and white tile floors throughout the downstairs, Victorian oil paintings, a Clementine Hunter original and an antique oak canopy bed and triple armoire.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie C. Gobert
88382 Diamondhead Dr. East

This contemporary home, designed and constructed by Mr. Gobert, was built with energy conservation in mind. The exterior of the home is clad with a highly efficient insulating and finish system. Alternating usage of two heating and cooling units maintain a comfortable environment.

Ceiling fans throughout the home contribute to energy efficiency, as well as a masonry fireplace designed to feed warm air back into the sunken den.

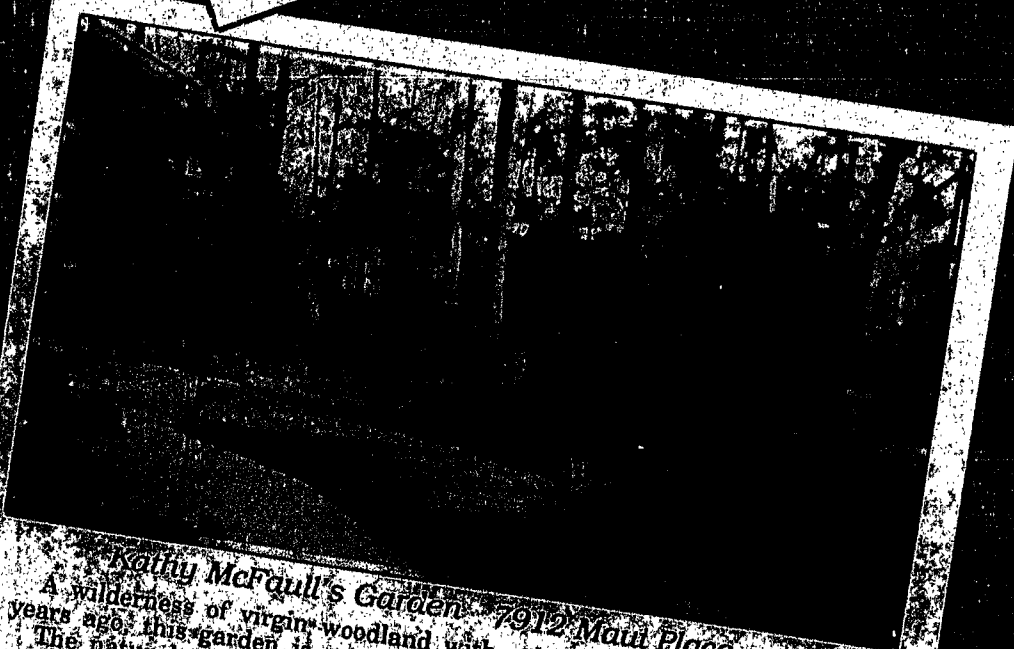

Built-in units, custom made by Mr. Gobert, contribute to the beauty of this four-bedroom home. Other unique features include Eastern white cedar ceilings in the family room and breakfast nook.

Home to two children with active lifestyles, indoor and outdoor living is integrated through the use of two patios off the central activity center of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor
6512 Mauna Loa Place

Custom designed by well-known Jackson architects, this house has an exterior of French New Orleans ranch design. It features an open, light and spacious design with wide doorways and easy access throughout for entertaining. The entrance foyer is of black marble. Adjacent to it is the raised floor of a formal dining room which is set off by round white columns. The formal living room prominently displays family heirlooms of the Eastlake Victorian period. Of special interest is the free standing see-through fireplace with built-in curio shelves which separates the living and family rooms. The master bedroom, breakfast area, family room and library all have extensive glass walls overlooking a 65-foot bi-level wooden deck with a wide view of the golf course.

Kathy McQuill's Garden
7912 Maui Place

A wilderness of virgin woodland with oak, pine and scrub trees two years ago, this garden is a pure delight. The natural egg shaped center has been outlined in monkey grass with shade loving plants radiating out from it. Using cameras, such as gardenias, azaleas, blueberries, Indian Hawthorne, etc., McQuill has developed her plot according to Mother Nature's terms. The many gardens include tropical, seasonal and wildflowers all growing happily together. The front and side gardens carry out the theme.

Paul and Carol Eckrich
7926 Apaki Place

This white stucco house is a combination of American Southwest and Mexican architectures. The Eckriches designed the house around a wall enclosed garden and patio. Of special note is the spacious master bedroom with its beehive fireplace and the Italian marble master bath. The living room area can be open or separated by mahogany pocket doors.

The floors are a combination of teak parquet and Mexican solito tile. Throughout the house are casement windows enclosed by mahogany shutters. The art, antiques and oriental rugs have gradually been acquired by the owners on their travels.

Hancock Library is grant recipient

The Hancock County Library system has been awarded $616 in state Library Improvement Grants for fiscal year 1991. The Mississippi Library Commission Board of Commissioners recently announced the release of this funding which was approved by the Mississippi State Legislature during its 1990 session.

The $50,000 appropriation has been divided among 45 public library systems in Mis-issippi, based on the number of counties served and the population of the area. The library plans to use the money to purchase equipment.

The Mississippi Library Commission is charged with the distribution and monitoring of these awards. This funding, combined with $2,824,816 in personnel grants to public libraries, totaled $2,874,816 in direct state aid to public libraries.

Necaise attends USM Gifted Studies Program

David Michael Necaise II of Bay St. Louis participated in the 1991 Saturday Gifted Studies Program at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Held on seven Saturday mornings from Jan. 19 through March 2, the series provided intellectually gifted students in grades K-12 with a variety of courses designed to enhance their abilities. Participants' parents also were able to take advantage of seminars designed especially for them, at no additional cost.

To be eligible, students must have an IQ score of at least 120 on an individually administered intelligence test (the WISC-R or Stanford-Binet) or have participated in a state-approved program for intellectually gifted students.

The series is led by Dr. Frances A. Karnes, director of the USM Center of Gifted Studies.

Necaise is the son of David Michael and Kimberly Necaise.

- More control over your phone charges—because you pay by the call.
- An expanded local calling area—so you pay local charges for calls that used to be long distance.
- Abbreviated dialing—so you no longer have to dial a "1" before numbers that were once long distance, but are now local.
- An option for a 20% discount on calls to certain areas.
- An additional 50% discount on calls made between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m. and on weekends and holidays.
- Basic phone service for as little as $10 per month for residence customers; $32 per month per line for businesses, plus usage.
